Manage Your Account....

Position posting gives the recruiter the opportunity to specify job function, level, seniority and salary range as well giving a summary of the position itself.

Wealth Management professionals can access your positions through specific searches of the WealthCareers database or through saving a personal “search agent” which will alert them by email of new positions which conform to their chosen criteria.

It's fast, effective and targeted!

You will also have your own senior account manager who will consistently create ways to improve applications or brand awareness.
