The growth in the prominence of the Asia Pacific region as a major wealth management centre for many organisations, has seen a huge demand for regionally specific news and information. WealthBriefingAsia has been launched to satisfy this information requirement.

Part of the WealthBriefing group of sites, WealthBriefingAsia is the only wealth management news site focussing solely on this region. Included in the daily reporting is the latest developments in the industry as well as updates of career movements. This enables wealth management professionals to keep on top of all the latest news as it happens in a consolidated format.

We understand that time is precious and an increasingly valuable commodity, so WealthBriefingAsia only covers the news, features and industry views that are important to you.
